

1. Create a class called student with field id, name, department, year. Create a method inside a class called insertinfo() and displayinfo() for inserting and displaying the information. Create the object and invoke the method through main.
2. Create an object directly by initializing the values through the method.
3. Create a class called vehicle with field speed, number of wheels and type (gear/automatic) create a method called calspeed(), for mileage calculation and displayinfo() for displaying the information . display the information by invoking the method through main method().